Mission

To inspire excellence in service to the public, making communities more livable by recognizing, documenting and celebrating outstanding enhancements to quality of life by individuals and organizations in the Superior California Region.

Goals

To achieve the Vision/Mission, the Partnership for Quality Living will do the following through partnerships and collaboration:

- recognize, honor and memorialize the history of people, organizations, places and programs that have through outstanding and long standing practices, significantly improved quality of life in the Region
- inspire and support people, agencies and organizations in the Region to improve our leisure quality of life
- through collaborations and partnerships, bring attention to and influence public policy affecting the future of the leisure quality of life in the Region

HALL OF HONOR INDUCTEE SPOTLIGHT

William Pond - First director of the Sacramento County Department of Parks and Recreation (1959-1968). Developed the Sacramento County Service Area Concept; areas included Rio Linda, Elverta, Fruitridge, Orangevale, Foothill Farms and Mission Cottage. Assisted the County Planning Department in developing a preliminary American River Parkway Plan (1961).

Eppie's Great Race - In 1974, Eppie Johnson had a great idea and the first Eppie's Great Race was held in June of that year. With this event, the "World's Oldest Triathlon" was born and continued for 44 consecutive years until 2018. The first year began with a modest 153 participants. The race matured to be a signature event for not just the Sacramento region, but all of California, attracting over 5,000 participants, volunteers and spectators annually.

Turtle Bay Exploration Park - Located at the center of the 200-mile-long Sacramento River Parkway in Redding, California. The rich natural and human history of Turtle Bay made it a perfect choice for developing a world-renowned natural history, art and science museum campus. One of the most popular features of the Turtle Bay Exploration Park is the Sundial Bridge, which has become a community icon.
